

Student Reading Responsibilities
Last updated June 3, 2012

Every week when you prepare for class and you are reading the assigned materials, you must complete the following evaluation for every article.

1. What is the purpose of this article as introduced by the author?
2. What is the theoretical framework introduced in the article?
3. For research articles, what methodologies were used?
4. For theoretical articles, how do the theories introduced relate to your field and area of interest?
5. What are the findings from this article?
6. What contributions does this article make in the theoretical development within your field and area of interest?
7. What contributions does this article make in future practices in you field and area of interest?
8. If you were to recommend this article to a friend in graduate school, what would you tell him/her is important about this article?
9. . Does this article follow APA style? If yes, how? If not, how?
10. What are the strengths in the author's writing style? What are the weaknesses in the author's writing style?